Rev. 22:1 - "...and there was no more sea."

The background of the image is a dark, deep blue night sky. A bright, full moon hangs in the center of the frame, casting a soft glow over the scene. Below the sky, a vast expanse of dark blue ocean stretches to the horizon. The water is not still; it has numerous white-capped waves that suggest a brisk wind or a choppy sea. In the far distance, a range of dark, silhouetted mountains or hills is visible against the lighter blue of the upper atmosphere.

Genesis 6:5-7 - The Lord saw how great the wickedness of the human race had become on the earth, and that every inclination of the thoughts of the human heart was only evil all the time. The Lord regretted that he had made human beings on the earth, and his heart was deeply troubled. So the Lord said, “I will wipe from the face of the earth the human race I have created.”

Genesis 7:18-23 .The waters rose and increased greatly on the earth...and all the high mountains under the entire heavens were covered. Everything on dry land that had the breath of life in its nostrils died. Every living thing on the face of the earth was wiped out.

2 Samuel 22:5-6

The waves of death swirled
about me;
the torrents of destruction
overwhelmed me.

The cords of the grave
coiled around me;
the snares of death
confronted me.

Isaiah 53:2-4

He grew up before him like a tender shoot,
and like a root out of dry ground.

He had no beauty or majesty to attract us to him,
nothing in his appearance that we should desire him.

He was despised and rejected by humans,
a man of suffering, and familiar with pain.

Like one from whom people hide their faces
he was despised,
and we held him in low esteem.

Surely he took up our pain and bore our suffering,
yet we considered him punished by God
stricken by him, and afflicted.
